This look came from a chess board as I was given a black and white look to complete. I thought about a chess board as a chess board tests your mind and your skills, also your patience.

Emma Talbot recommends Paint Me Up.
March 12
I have used paint me up (Beth) a couple of times, once for a Halloween face paint which was epic and commented on all night, and then for eye-lash and brow tint, which I will be coming back for more hopefully on a regular basis. friendly, professional and helpful would Def recommend

These Pictures are from my Facebook business page. They are just a few images to show some of the work I plan on doing, the services I am offering and a review I have had already. This business I will be building up as soon as I can. My original plan was to do level 3 but I am happy building my business. I am yet to sign up for any sally's courses but as soon as I have the funds, I would like to do a course in waxing. I did have booking prior to the pandemic but I'm hoping that once this is over, I will be flooded with people who are wanting to book parties for their children and places who will be throwing events that require a face painter. I have plans to expand my business on both sides. At the minute my services are limited, my beauty side of my business will be expanded and renamed Paint Me Pretty while still having Paint Me Up as my child-based side of the business. For the children's side, I plan on investing in a doughnut wall and "photo fill your face" boards which will be added as soon as I have some money in the bank.
